The one fragmented textile (museum No. 1963-5-1) was found in a Yokut cemetery at the south end of Buena Vista Lake, Kern County, CA. The textile is contained in a frame with a note on the back of the frame stating, "Found in May 1935 by Edwin F. Walker in a Yokuts cemetery 25 feet above the shoreline of Buena Vista Lake, Kern County, California, and 1,000 feet north of shoreline at outlet of the lake." The textile was received at the San Diego Museum of Man in 1963.

Museum records clearly indicate that the textile was found in a Yokut cemetery. Further information from the back of the frame states, "Found...in square F/70, burial H, Depth 45 - disturbed burial of an adult, elderly, flexed, head to west, fabric wrapped around legs, no other material." There are no known associated human remains in the museum's collection. The Santa Rosa Indian Community of the Santa Rosa Rancheria, California provided the museum with territory and language family maps, written ethnographical information about the Yokuts and their inter-relationships with surrounding communities, which covers the territory where the unassociated funerary object was discovered. Based on consultation, the museum was able to determine that the Santa Rosa Indian Community of the Santa Rosa Rancheria, California has a shared group identity with the unassociated funerary object.
