

affecting the product or the absence of a notice of requirements for the children's product, the Commission has decided to continue the stay of enforcement for consumer products or children's products listed below." 74 FR at 68591. We noted that the stay on CPSIA testing and certification did not extend to compliance with the applicable mandatory safety requirements; thus, the stay did not extend to guarantees under the Flammable Fabrics Act. 74 FR at 68589, 68591. The products identified in part II.D of the December 28, 2009 notice included:

- Carpets and rugs (16 CFR parts 1630 and 1631);
- Vinyl plastic film (16 CFR part 1611); and
- Wearing apparel (16 CFR part 1610).

74 FR at 68591. The Commission also explained that:

The Commission intends to require testing and certification of these products once it completes the rulemakings associated with the products, issues notices of requirements, or otherwise resolves the issues that have warranted a continuation of the stay of enforcement for the products.

74 FR at 68591 through 68592.

In July and August 2010, the Commission issued notices of requirements for these products. The notice of requirements pertaining to vinyl plastic film and carpets and rugs appeared in the Federal Register of July 21, 2010. 75 FR 42311 (vinyl plastic film); 75 FR 42315 (carpets and rugs). The notice of requirements pertaining to clothing textiles (referred to as "wearing apparel" in the December 28, 2009 notice) appeared in the Federal Register of August 18, 2010. 75 FR 51016. Each notice of requirements described the stay of enforcement and then declared that the publication of the notice of requirements had the effect of lifting the stay of enforcement. For example, in the notice of requirements pertaining to clothing textiles, the Commission stated:

As the factor preventing the stay from being lifted in the December 28, 2009, notice with regard to testing and certifications of clothing textiles was the absence of a notice of requirements, publication of this notice has the effect of lifting the stay with regard to 16 CFR part 1610.

75 FR at 51018. In relation to lifting the stay, each notice of requirements also described when manufacturers of children's products subject to the respective regulations would be required to certify their products based on third party testing.

Recently, various parties have contacted CPSC staff to ask whether the stay of enforcement had been lifted with respect to non-children's products subject to the cited CPSC regulations pertaining to vinyl plastic film, carpets and rugs, and clothing textiles. Although some manufacturers interpreted the notices of requirements as lifting the stay of enforcement with respect to both non-children's and children's products, others interpreted the text as applying only to children's products. Other parties informed CPSC staff that they did not consider reading the notices of requirements for information relevant to manufacturers because the notices of requirements provide the criteria and process for Commission acceptance of accreditation of third party laboratories for testing pursuant to CPSC regulations.

Given the apparent confusion about whether the stay of enforcement for non-children's products subject to the cited CPSC regulations pertaining to vinyl plastic film, carpets and rugs, and clothing textiles has been lifted, the Commission, through this notice, is announcing that the stay of enforcement pertaining to the certification under section 14(a)(1) of the CPSA for non-children's products will be lifted as of January 26, 2011. Thus, after January 26, 2011, every manufacturer of a non-children's product (and the private labeler of such product if such product bears a private label) subject to CPSC regulations pertaining to:

- Carpets and rugs (16 CFR parts 1630 and 1631),
- Vinyl plastic film (16 CFR part 1611) or
- Wearing apparel (16 CFR part 1610),

whose product is imported for consumption or warehousing or distributed in commerce, must issue a certificate for that product. (The term "manufacturer" includes importers (see 16 CFR part 1110).)

DoD contracting officers need the information required by DFARS 215.407-5, Estimating systems, and the related contract clause at 252.215-7002, Cost Estimating System Requirements, to determine if a contractor has an acceptable system for generating cost estimates, and to monitor the correction of any deficiencies.
