the refuge is conducted by the U.S. Geological Survey through the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center.

With land surrounding the Patuxent and Little Patuxent Rivers between Washington, DC, and Baltimore, Maryland, the refuge has grown from the original 2,670 acres to its present size of 12,841 acres, and encompasses land formerly managed by the Departments of Agriculture and Defense. Refuge habitats consist of forested floodplain and mixed hardwood uplands, managed impoundments, fields, and shrublands. The impressive breadth of research that has occurred over the years includes projects involving issues such as environmental contaminants, captive propagation of endangered species, including the whooping crane, and bird population monitoring techniques. The refuge is home to the National Wildlife Visitor Center, a first-class facility for environmental education, interpretation, and scientific information exchange. There are over 24 miles of hiking trails on the refuge, and a variety of opportunities for hunting, fishing, and wildlife observation yearround.

- (2) Biological program issues, such as habitat and species management, protection, restoration, monitoring, inventories, and research;
- (3) Public-use program issues, such as the breadth and quality of programs, public access, user conflicts, and use impacts on natural resources;

- (4) Infrastructure and staffing issues, such as appropriateness of facilities, safety, accessibility, and additional staffing needs;
- (5) Community relations and outreach issues and opportunities, such as tourism, and local economic impacts; and
